DEAR ATTENDEES,

For more than half a century since the Security Industry Association (SIA), SIA has represented the most professional, innovative companies in the industry—and SIA members are poised to lead the industry for the next 50 years!

Among SIA's more than 1,000 members, you'll find some of the largest firms and some of the newest players operating in our industry. SIA is proud of the diversity of our members, and we applaud their commitment to driving our industry forward and keeping this nation and the world safe. To our members: We thank you!

This publication, SIA Select, includes all SIA members and is designed to help introduce you to new partners and new suppliers to help you solve your security challenges or grow your business. We hope you use this publication to find your next opportunity or solve that remaining security challenge!

We hope that you will also take the opportunity to get to know SIA. As the preeminent trade association representing the security solutions industry, we spearhead programs and activities that benefit the entire industry, particularly in the following areas:

EDUCATION & TRAINING

SIA education can be found at ISC West and ISC East and is offered online through webinars, instructor-led training sessions and e-learning options, covering a variety of security technology and management topics.

CERTIFICATION

We're best known for the Certified Security Project Manager (CSPM) credential, which attests to an individual's ability to effectively control complex, technical security projects.

RESEARCH AND REPORTS

SIA continues to provide the research that helps our member companies grow! SIA is known for its vertical market reports that forecast opportunities within specific sectors of the industry and its future-facing trends and technology reports that help you organize your business strategy.

STANDARDS DEVELOPMENT

From our OSDP interoperability standard for access control to our CP-01 standard that minimizes false alarms, SIA standards benefit the industry and, ultimately, the users of security systems.

GOVERNMENT RELATIONS

From resources that help firms navigate how to do business with the government to SIA's efforts to help members and their customers understand the impact of new regulations, the information we share and the work we do benefit you.

WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT

From cultivating young professionals to attracting students and growing the diversity and Inclusiveness of our workforce, SIA is working hard to ensure that the security industry has the workforce of the future—and that you grow along with the industry!

I hope that you take the opportunity to discover the value of SIA and consider joining our association. You'll find us at securityindustry.org.

Sincerely,
Don Erickson
CEO, Security Industry Association
